

Workshop at Loyola College

In order to update the knowledge of the students, Loyola Institute of Technology partnered with IBM to introduce engineering students to the world of IoT and contribute in the field of fast-paced technology. During the two-day-packed agenda, presenters from IBM talked about the lavish amount of opportunity in this technology. The programme titled 'IBM Watson' on IoT, enabled students to develop applications using the Bluemix platform.